First National Title Adds David Hays as Underwriting Counsel

PLANO, TEXAS (July, 11 2013) First National Title Insurance Company (FNTI) CEO Chris Phillips is pleased to announce another addition to their team. David Hays has joined FNTI as vice president/underwriting counsel. His work history includes a variety of executive and management positions throughout the title insurance and real estate industries.

“David’s previous experience in examination and closing at an independent title agent gives him a unique point of view. He understands the closing process and what it takes to run a successful agency. That experience will resonate with every independent agent in our network. This knowledge along with his prior underwriting experience gives David a comprehensive perspective in resolving our agents’ underwriter questions,” said Phillips.

David is an accomplished speaker presenting regular continuing education classes for escrow officers, real estate agents, and the Texas Land Title Association. “David is known in the market for his presentation skills and has a library of relevant subjects and timely topics to educate our agents’ clients and to provide training in this changing regulatory environment.

“Underwriting support is crucial to building a strong relationship with independent agents, and I am pleased that we have complimented our team with another excellent underwriting counsel. We now have legal staff in the major metropolitan areas of Houston, Austin, and Dallas. Adding a third underwriting counsel also gives us flexibility and the agents more options. An underwriter will always be available via phone or e-mail,” Phillips stated. “We are excited to have David join our team.”
