LATEST NEWS: First National Title Insurance Company Hires Arley Nevar as Key Accounts Director

PLANO, TEXAS - First National Title Insurance Company (FNTI) is excited to announce Arley Nevar as its Key Accounts Director.

Arley Nevar brings a uniquely modern perspective to the title world, with roots in SaaS sales, growth leadership experience, and a knack for building systems that actually work for humans. She started in title insurance at Qualia, helping to modernize operations across the industry. She then moved into the field, training escrow officers on sales strategy and supporting them in growing their books of business efficiently through technology and strong customer relationships.

Equal parts strategist and relationship builder, Arley understands what agents need because she's been in the trenches with them. Now, she's excited to scale that support across a wider network of agency partners, helping them grow sustainably, with first-hand experience and future-forward insights.

"Title is the only industry I know where business and friendship overlap so naturally, and that's what made me fall in love with it. I care deeply about the work because I care about the people, and I'm grateful for the chance to partner with agents who feel the same," says Nevar.

Chad Hansen, FNTI president, adds, "I am excited we are able to bring Arley on board with us. Her skills of relationship development and forward-thinking technology fit well with the direction our company is moving. We are looking forward to Arley helping move us down the road of excellence!"

Arley will collaborate with agents nationwide, providing strategic consulting to support and accelerate their business growth.
